

Enroll In Your Workplace Retirement Plan Now

It may seem tough to save for retirement when you have today's bills to pay. But the reality is that YOU are the most important piece in banking enough money for the retirement you want.

Join The Crowd

When it comes to saving for retirement, forget the rhetorical question: "If everyone else is jumping off a bridge, will you too?" With nearly 80% of eligible workers¹ saying they contribute to their employer's retirement plan, in this case, you should follow the crowd.

Your employer offers one of the simplest ways for you to save for retirement. Better still, many employers match some employee contributions. Regardless of how long you've been working, it's important to start now, and not miss out on this opportunity.

Debunk The Myths

Below are some common reasons you may be unsure about saving for retirement and reasons why you actually should.

MYTH 1

I have plenty of time before I retire

Actually, the longer your money is invested, the greater the potential impact on your savings. See the potential that ten additional years may have on your retirement.

MYTH 2

I don't have enough money right now

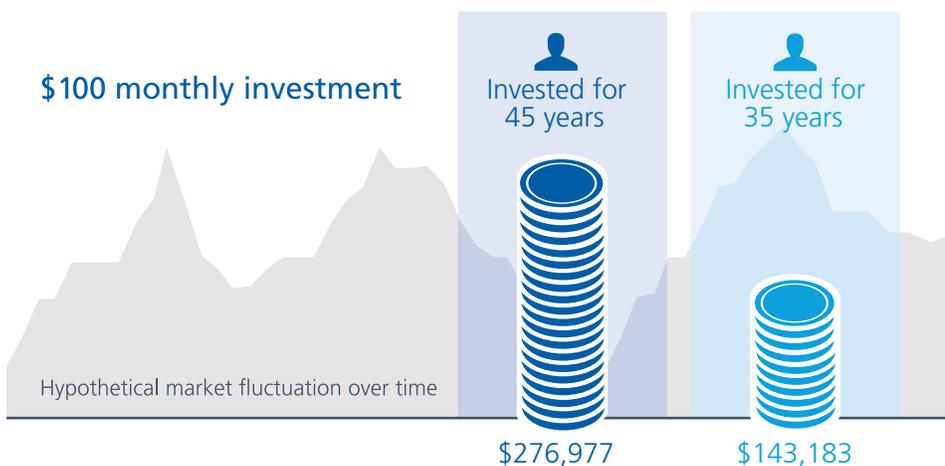

Even if you can only afford a little each month, the key is to start now. Small sacrifices—like movie night at home or eating out less—free up money to invest.

MYTH 3

I have already saved enough

If you're saving on your own, congratulations. Just make sure it's enough. Depending on your age and when you retire, you may need more than you think. Also, consider the impact of inflation: Today's $100 will only equal $74 in ten years with just 3% inflation².

What A Difference A Decade Makes

Source: American Century Investments

This graph is hypothetical and for illustrative purposes only. It is not indicative of any specific investment. It assumes an 6% annual rate of return, the reinvestment of interest and dividends and retirement at the age of 65. The value of an investment may fluctuate with market conditions and your redemption may be worth more or less than its original value.

Advantages Now And Later: Don't Miss Out.

Experts say you'll need about 80%³ of your current income every year in retirement. Multiply that by 25 to 30 years and you're looking at a pretty high price tag. Enrolling in your employer's plan is a critical step towards aiming to help you cover future costs. Plus, your plan offers advantages you can use while you're still working.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE AUTOMATIC

Once you enroll, you're set. You choose the amount and investments; your employer does the rest.

YOUR CURRENT TAXES ARE LOWER

The money is taken from your paycheck before federal and most state income taxes are withheld. That means your current taxable income will be lower and you will pay less in taxes.

YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU

If you leave your current job, the money can be rolled over into a new employer's plan or a Rollover IRA — helping you avoid taxes and penalties, and keeping your money invested for your future.

The Bottom Line

Enrolling in your employer's retirement plan is one of the smartest choices you can make for your future.

Pretax Contributions = Lower Federal Taxes, Small Impact On Paycheck

 Monthly Gross Pay	$3,500	$3,500	$3,500	$3,500
 Contribution	$0	$100	$200	$300
 Federal taxes	$875	$850	$825	$800
 Net pay	$2,625	$2,550	$2,475	$2,400

Table is based on annual salary of $42,000 and assumes a monthly paycheck, single employee with no dependents and a federal tax rate of 25%. Some states also provide savings for individuals who participate in an employer's retirement plan; however FICA and Medicare taxes are not reduced by a contribution. Rounded to nearest dollar.

¹ According to the Employee Benefits Research Institute (EBRI), 79.5 percent of workers say they are contributing to their employer's retirement plan. Source: The 2012 Retirement Confidence Survey, EBRI, Washington, DC.

² Source: American Century Investments inflation calculator; Effects of inflation on a dollar amount over 10 years.

³ Source: American Society of Pension Actuaries

This material is provided with permission from American Century. It is for informational purposes only and has been obtained from sources believed to be reliable. While every effort is made to ensure the accuracy of its contents, it should not be relied upon as being tax, legal, or financial advice.

Mariner, LLC dba Mariner Wealth Advisors ("MWA"), is an SEC registered investment adviser. Registration of an investment adviser does not imply a certain level of skill or training. MWA is in compliance with the current notice filing requirements imposed upon registered investment advisers by those states in which MWA maintains clients. MWA may only transact business in those states in which it is notice filed, or qualifies for an exemption or exclusion from notice filing requirements. Any subsequent, direct communication by MWA with a prospective client shall be conducted by a representative that is either registered or qualifies for an exemption or exclusion from registration in the state where the prospective client resides. For additional information about MWA, including fees and services, please contact MWA or refer to the Investment Adviser Public Disclosure website (www.adviserinfo.sec.gov). Please read the disclosure statement carefully before you invest or send money.